NORTH WEST

Welcome to the Coppice Association North West's (CANW) Products and Services Directory 2022. Here you will find a list of our member's local woodland and coppice related businesses. There is a wide range of woodland products, traditional crafts, rural skills and environmental services available. If you don't see what you are looking for, the chances are someone knows someone who can help, so do give your local coppice worker a call, or contact our Secretary secretary.canw@gmail.com

What is coppicing?

Coppicing is the creation of vigorous multi-stemmed trees and shrubs through cutting areas of suitable woodland to ground level on a repetitive cycle. It is the oldest known form of woodland management and has been in evidence for over 8,000 years.

Most woodlands in Britain have been managed as coppice at some point in their history. This has resulted in the development of many traditional and innovative crafts.

Coppicing is the most sustainable way of keeping broad-leaf woodlands productive, it also creates valuable wildlife habitat for a wide range of flora and fauna.

What are the benefits?

Long-term sustainability

Coppiced woodlands can remain productive for many hundreds if not thousands of years. The economic value of a well managed coppice can ensure its continued management for products and wildlife without having to rely on government funding.

Employment

Coppicing is a human scale industry which requires skilled woodland workers and craftspeople to harvest and process the material, often using low impact and hand tools with minimal detrimental effect on the woodland.

Resources

Coppice woods can be very productive and provide a wide range of sustainable products such as charcoal, firewood, hedge-stakes, fascines for riverbank stabilisation, materials for baskets and furniture and garden products to name a few.

Wildlife and ecology

The varied structure and cyclical nature of coppiced woodland, going from bare earth in year one to dense shade at year 7 and beyond, creates the perfect conditions for a wide range of woodland species. The dense carpet of light loving species in the early part of the cycle is a rich source of food for invertebrates. These insects in turn feed the birds and mammals while the dense regrowth provides them with a home. This dynamic habitat needs constant attention to maintain these conditions, it is our coppice workers who are doing this vital work.

ADRIAN LLOYD

NORTH WEST CUMBRIA & NATIONWIDE

Adrian is a full-time designer, maker and teacher of traditional heritage woodcrafts with particular specialisms in both pole lathe and electric bowl turning, spoon carving, chair making and pounded ash splint basket weaving. He is also an experienced edge tool maker and bladesmith with his own forging and heat treatment facilities.

Adrian's particular passion is for creating beautiful, functional, traditional hand-crafted items from predominantly green wood using traditional methods and razor-sharp hand tools.

He teaches all aspects of his craft from his home workshop in NW Cumbria but also travels extensively to share his skills with others. His products are available through his website and various social media channels and he is used to shipping worldwide. He also accepts commission work on occasion.

WOODY (HYNDBURN) C.I.C.

HYNDBURN AND EAST LANCASHIRE

We are a volunteer-led community enterprise set up to help develop the woodland economy in the district of Hyndburn in East Lancashire. We specialise in managing woodlands for habitat and public benefit and optimising the use of the arising products. We currently make, sell and install benches, picnic tables and bird/bat boxes. We also make, supply and deliver rustic poles, sawn larch planks, cladding, timber and firewood. When material is available we also make bean-poles, pea sticks and hedging stakes. We raise awareness of the importance of good woodland management and provide training opportunities for many volunteers.
